This devotion to roller-skating deserves all our appreciation and the guarantee from IFSA, their international organization, that they will compete in our competitions in an atmosphere of good will and sportsmanship, a fundamental idea of all sports.

All competitors, to assure that the highest level of sportsmanship is achieved at every IFSA events, must observe the following rules. Regardless of one's personal commitment to these principles, every athlete, competing in an IFSA event, is expected to report themselves accordingly.

All athletes are required to know and understand the rules of eligibility for their events, the rules of the game and the meaning of good sportsmanship as exemplified by the Olympic spirit. Athletes are required to understand and observe IOC anti-doping regulations. Failure to do so comply may result in suspension or expulsion from current or future IFSA Events.

4.1: INSCRIPTION

National teams, clubs or independent competitor can take part to any IFSA event. They must register on line on the official IFSA Website. The registration and the payment of the inscription will be confirmed via e-mail. In case of any technical fault or impossibility of payment, the IFSA will offer the possibility to register on the event day. Wrong identity or nickname are not allows to be used for the officials inscription to the event.

4.2: KNOWLEDGE BASIS

Every skaters taking part to an IFSA event, must be aware of the rules. No one can deny knowing the basis of the present regulation when participating to an event.

4.3: PROCESS OF THE IFSA EVENT

The International Freestyle Skaters Association is proposing two distinctive events.

- A point cup, called IFSA World CUP, this event is based on an accumulation of points from international events affiliated to the IFSA.
- A championship, based on a one-event system, where the IFSA World championship will be defined.

1- The IFSA World Cup

Each skaters participating to one of the cup step affiliated to the IFSA, will score a certain amount of points defined by the ranking. This points system is working for all the IFSA official sports. For 2009, the points are defined as follows:

The winner of an official sport will mark twenty (20) points, the second will score nineteen (19) points, the third eighteen (18) points, ..., the number of points will drop by one point until the twentieth skater. The twenty-first won't score any point.

For 2009, only the three best results will be taken into account for the cup ranking.

In case of exaequo in the freestyle slalom cup, the freestyle skating marks received during the three best events, will be taken into account to define the position.

For speed slalom, to define the position, in case of exaequo, the best time trial time of the three events taken into account will make the decision.

For free-jump, the best performance over the three taken into account event, will make the decision.

On the last event of the cup, the podium will be presented with the official presentation of the World cup winner, for each official IFSA sports.

2 The IFSA World Championship

All qualified skaters, either from one of the cup event, from the previous championship, from access following a national event or on the first day of the IFSA World Championship, will be able to take part at the IFSA World Championship.

The podium of each sport is automatically qualified from one year to the other without taking part to any cup or qualification.

The number of qualified skaters is defined every year by consultation of the technical committee and approbation of the IFSA executive board.

Following the world championship event, the IFSA World champion will be defined by the performance on this one event. A world champion will be defined for each of the sports and each of the categories covered by the IFSA.
